Terms and Conditions for Clutter Clearing Consultations conducted by Katya Wieber

These Terms and Conditions are designed to clarify how we will work together. Please read them carefully.

General information about clutter clearing sessions

I will never tell you to dispose of any item. I may advise you and give you insights into how keeping clutter may be affecting you, but the final decision about whether you keep or dispose of any item will be entirely yours. I can therefore accept no responsibility for the consequences of any decision you may make.

I will always endeavour to help you identify any items among your possessions that have potentially high market value, but you must acknowledge that I am not a qualified assessor and do not have the expertise to identify items of special value or rarity.

Liability

I always take great care when handling items. However, accidents can happen, and you agree that I cannot and will not be held liable for any losses or damage, howsoever caused.

Confidentiality

You may rest assured that I will never divulge any personal or business details that I may see in the course of working with you.

Fees

Payment is due at the end of each session, except in the case of a series of consultations that have been booked at an agreed special price that is payable in advance. Payment can be made in cash or by check. There may be additional charges for any materials used, such as boxes, or additional travel fees.

Cancellation or Postponement

Both parties have the right to cancel or postpone a consultation due to unforeseen circumstances. In the event of less than 48 hours' notice, I reserve the right to charge 50% of the agreed fee.
